

Noel Posus is a recognised leader of the international coaching industry, a Master Coach with nearly twenty years experience as a professional educator, coach and author. He is also Coach of the Year 2008 & 2009 awarded from the Australia New Zealand Institute of Coaching

He has provided coaching and change management solutions to individuals and groups within the corporate, education and sporting fields and developed numerous specialty coaching programs, including Beyond the Courtroom and Vision for Humanity. He is the author of 30 Days of Incredible Awareness, as well as co-author of the 13 books in The Wheels of Life series, including filming the 65 tutorial videos for that coaching methodology.

Noel's belief in the sharing of knowledge and experience has seen him mentoring many life, business, executive and specialist coaches and he contributes 25 per cent of his time to altruistic projects and industry positions, including being on the Board of Directors for the International Institute of Coaching. He also holds the distinction of Master Coach or Fellow Coach with a number of coaching industry professional bodies.

He began his career lecturing and coaching at the University of Colorado at Denver in multicultural diversity and psychodrama. Leaving academia for the corporate world, Noel has consulted, mentored and coached in nearly 30 countries, eventually making his way to Australia in 1997. Here he took on the role of Director of Performance Achievement Asia Pacific for TeleTech International, and therefore pioneered workplace coaching as a portfolio of senior leadership in this region.

Launching his private coaching practice in 2002, Noel has coached with major industry players including Microsoft, American Airlines, Reuters, Ericsson, the Australian Federal Government and numerous top financial institutions. On the individual side, clients have ranged from Olympic gold medallists to Oscar winners, students to scientists, artists to politicians and anyone wanting to make changes in their life.

Today, Noel Posus and business partner Sarah Hue-Williams are the co-directors of Incredible Awareness, an international coaching organisation dedicated to providing affordable and accessible coaching services (individuals and groups) as well as custom designing corporate coaching and learning programmes.

Noel leads an international team of exceptional quality coaches with a wide range of specialties and expertise, delivering coaching services in over 15 languages.

He has taught at a number of coaching schools, is a part time lecturer at the Centre for Peace and Conflict Studies ("Coaching in Conflict") and presents at major coaching conferences throughout the world inspiring coaches to be the best they can in terms of Mastery of Self, Mastery of Coaching, Mastery of Business and Mastery of the Coaching Industry.

The words most often used by clients to describe Noel include wise, expert, engaging, fun, practical, down-to-earth and someone with incredible awareness.
